GREAT RALLY

In the Interest of the Kentucky Normal College.

Very Successful Affair, at Which the Hon. W. H. May was the Chief Speaker.

As announced in last week's issue of the NEWS, a rally was given in the interest of the Kentucky Normal College of this city on last Friday. The affair was planned by the Board of Education of Louisa.

The opening exercises began at 3:30 p. m., when the Boys' Concert Band led the procession of college students from the college to the depot where they were met by the pupils from the public school building; and those formed in line several students deep and extending from the corner of Main street to the opposite side of Madison street. The students of several of the counties had organized and were arrayed in the line under their banners. Next to the band was the Floyd county delegation, after them came the Magoffin, Lawrence, Boyd, Pike and Johnson counties in the order named, and then the students from the eight or ten other counties not organized and Professors Byington, Kennison, Spradlin and Cisco, and Mrs. Kennison, Mrs. Johnson, Miss Reynolds and Miss Bromley of the college faculty. Next in line were Prof. McClure and the pupils of the common school department grouped with their respective teachers, Mrs. Cisco, Prof. Copley, Miss Gearhart, and Mrs. Sullivan.

This ovation was in honor of the chief speaker of the evening, who arrived on No. 39 and was escorted to his place of entertainment; after which the pupils of the public school were excused from the line, and those from the advanced department returned to the square in front of the college and the delegations from the different counties entertained one another with a friendly rivalry of songs and college "yells," ending with a race to the college veranda, which was won by the Lawrence county hanner.

At seven p. m. the court house was well filled with citizens when the school marched in, the Common School Department entering first, and followed by the College Department, led by the hand, M. S. Burns made the address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of Louisa, in his usual happy and forceful manner. Aside from the pleasantness of the occasion he addressed a few words in serious strain, urging upon the young people the fact that they have come here for work and can not afford to spend any time in amusements, for such things tend to take the mind from their studies and consume time and energy which should be devoted to making the most of the excellent opportunities for study now open before them.

Words of welcome from the Lawrence county students to those from other counties and states were ably and appropriately spoken by Mr. Dock Jordan, who also expressed his appreciation of the K. N. C.; after which the Lawrence students expressed their enthusiasm by a series of college yells and their loyalty to the K. N. C. by a song composed for the occasion and set to the tune of "Glory, Hallelujah!"

Responses were then made by representatives of several counties, interspersed with the yells of the different counties, and songs written for the occasion expressing devotion to the K. N. C.; one to the music of "My Old Kentucky Home" by the students of Magoffin county, and one to the tune of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" by those from Floyd county. Mr. W. S. Caudill spoke for Johnson county and called attention to the fact that attendance from his county had not fallen below that of last year. In his talk he paid glowing tribute to the kind mother at home who was praying for her son at school. Magoffin county was represented by Miss Julia Arnett, who among other things mentioned the fact that the attendance from Magoffin county this term is exactly twice as large as last winter. Miss Cordella Stewart, who said that "numbers speak louder than words," and that the loyalty of Floyd county is shown in the fact that there are enrolled in the K. N. C. at this time one hundred and nine from that county. That the college in moving to Louisa had not gone so far that the fidelity of Floyd could not reach it; in fact, the college could not move so far away that Floyd students would not follow it; and promised a still larger delegation next year. Mr. Joseph Alley spoke for Pike county, and claimed for his county one especial honor that the attendance from his county is more than three times as great as last year.

For lack of time, delegates from the nine or ten other counties of Kentucky and the students in attendance from the states of West Virginia, Old Virginia, Ohio and Iowa, were not called on to respond. It would be impossible to say which delegation of students showed the most zeal, enthusiasm and loyalty; and all who are acquainted with bodies of students, commented on this beautiful spirit universal among the K. N. C. students.

After a short, interesting and stirring talk by President Byington, he introduced the speaker of the evening, the Hon. W. H. May, Commonwealth's Attorney for the 31st Judicial District of Kentucky. Mr. May is a thorough Normalite, having had instruction under Alfred Holbrook, the founder of Independent Normalism. Mr. May is a living example of what the principles of Independent Normalism grafted upon the native ability of the mountain boy of Kentucky, will produce. He has a commanding appearance on the rostrum, tall, erect, graceful and genial; and has a clear, pleasant, carrying voice. He spoke briefly of the contrast between true Normalism.

DAMRON OIL COMPANY.

Preparing to Develop Some Good West Virginia Property.

The Damron Oil Company has been organized at Huntington to develop some promising oil and gas territory in Lincoln county, W. Va. The property adjoins one of the richest fields in West Virginia. It is the strongest gas territory now known in the United States. A well recently drilled in their is producing eleven millions of cubic feet of gas per day. There are dozens of other wells in the same neighborhood producing enormous amounts of gas. Also, there are some good oil wells on the same property.

Wayne Damron, a Louisa boy, secured leases on this territory with the aid of an influential relative and official of Lincoln county. He has sold an interest to some substantial business men of Huntington and they are now getting ready to develop the property. Some treasury stock is being offered for sale, but the amount disposed of will be limited to a sum not exceeding the cost of one well. The stock has been on the market only a short time and is going rapidly.

The first well will be started as soon as the winter is over.

Surrender of the Daniels.

Six of the Daniels "feudists" have surrendered to the Sheriff of Pike county. They are James Daniels and five of his sons. It will be remembered that in defending these, Mrs. Charles Daniels and her sixteen year old daughter were shot to death in the doorway of their home near Devon, W. Va. The Daniels were charged with murder and were being pursued by a Pike county sheriff and posse. They took refuge in Charles Daniels' house, and in attempting to prevent the posse from entering Mrs. Daniels and the girl were killed.

Death of J. J. Burgess.

Louisa friends and relatives of Mrs. Lily Goble Burgess will be sorry to learn of the death of her husband, Mr. J. J. Burgess, which occurred at Dearborn, Missouri, on last Monday night. Death was the result of a heart and kidney trouble from which he had suffered a long time.

Death Claims Child.

William O'Brien Scott, aged 22 months and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Scott, now of Bluefield, but formerly of this city, died at their home in Bluefield Sunday morning of typhoid fever and after an illness of only two weeks. The little one seemed to improve just before the last and the death came as a severe blow to his parents, when they were expecting him to get well. They brought the body to Williamson on No. 3 Sunday night and the funeral services were conducted from the home of Mrs. Scott's brother, Mr. Fred O'Brien, on Fourth Avenue, and interment made in the Williamson cemetery. Rev. S. W. Moore conducted the funeral services. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Scott in their bereavement.—Williamson Enterprise.

Mrs. Scott, who is a daughter of William O'Brien, of Walbridge, had been spending the holidays at Williamson, and the child contracted typhoid fever while there.

Senator Prichard's Daughter Ill.

Miss Lula Prichard, daughter of Senator and Mrs. J. S. Prichard, is dangerously ill with pneumonia at the home of her sister in Paris, Ky. Miss Lula accompanied by her mother, spent last week visiting the Senator in Frankfort, and on Saturday left for Paris to visit her sister Mrs. Geo. W. Chapman, before returning to their home in Boyd county.

She was suddenly attacked with what appeared to be grip, which is so prevalent at this time, but in a few hours it developed that she had pneumonia. Grave fears are entertained for her by her friends, owing to the fact that this is the second siege of pneumonia she has experienced within a little more than a year.

Sent for a Purpose.

Representative Watson G. Caudill, the Democrat, who won out in the overwhelmingly Republican district of Floyd, Knott and Letcher counties, declares he was sent to the legislature for no other purpose than to secure the repeal of the dog tax law, his constituency taking the position that a Democrat would have more influence in this respect than a half dozen Republicans. He says the dog law is the paramount issue in his "neck of the woods," and it comes to demanding its repeal. Representative Caudill declares that unless the obnoxious law is done away with that the "varmints" will take the mountain country.

Attorney General John W. Woods.

Word from Frankfort was that things looked flattering for Attorney John W. Woods, of this city, being the next candidate for Attorney General. Mr. Woods is in Frankfort, and will return home tonight. He is a bright young attorney, and has just served a term as County Attorney, which office he filled with the greatest credit. He is a man of sterling qualities, and if given the nomination and elected to the office, he will fill it with credit both to himself and party. Mr. Woods is a loyal Democrat, but has staunch friends in both parties.—Ashland Independent.

Lon Fraley Getting Well.

Lon Fraley, who was so shockingly injured in the Torchlight mines on the 13th of last November, has recovered sufficient to be taken to his home at Torchlight. He was taken to Riverview hospital and was there operated upon by Dr. T. D. Burgess. He was very seriously injured, and for a long time it was doubtful whether he would recover. His life seemed to hang in the balance a long time. Finally the turn for the better came, and on the 29 of January he was able to be removed. Barring mishaps his complete recovery seems assured.

Has Returned to Finish.

W. G. Combs and wife, who were married here last year while both were attending the K. N. C., have returned to Louisa and gone to housekeeping. Mr. Combs has returned to finish the regular course. Mrs. Combs was Miss Eunice Lowe. Her sister is with them.

BIG SANDY RIVER

Cets Another Appropriation From Congress.

Congressman Langley Wires the Good News to President of River Association.

A telegram was received by Col. Jay H. Northup from Hon. John W. Langley Thursday morning of this week stating that the Rivers and Harbors Committee of Congress has given money enough to complete dams No. 1 and another lock on Levisa.

Judging from the recommendation of the engineer department and from a general knowledge of the situation we construe the telegram to mean that money enough to entirely complete dam No. 1 on Levisa and dam No. 1 on Tug has been provided. $25,000 is needed for each of these. The Sundry Civil Bill last year appropriated $25,000 for this purpose, but the money was not made available for use. The sum stated is needed for building some walls and protecting the banks at these dams.

The provision for another lock and dam on Levisa is very welcome news also.

As to another lock on the Tug fork Congressman Hughes and Senator Elkins may be depended upon to secure this through the Senate. They have never yet failed to do this and we believe they will succeed this time.

It has required a hard fight to get anything this time in the face of the howl for economy in government expenditures and our representatives at Washington deserve great credit for the victory.

E. K. Road Not Sold.

Recent reports again have the Eastern Kentucky railway, between Riverton and Wehville, sold to the C. & O. The report is that the E. K. railway franchise runs out some time during this year, and the C. & O. will take charge at the expiration of that time.

In an interview with the Gazette reporter, Vice-President Sturgis G. Bates, of the Eastern Kentucky railway, says the above report is not true, that the E. K. has not been sold. Time and again the newspapers in this section have had the road sold, but it never has, as yet, materialized.—Greenup Gazette.

This is the road that was to have been extended from Wehville via Blaine, Flat Gap, Barnett's Creek, to Magoffin county via Salyersville. The route was surveyed and mapped and a portion of the right of way obtained. This move cannot materialize until the E. K. changes hands.

Sent to a Sanitarium.

The friends of Elliott Preston, of Georges Creek, will be sorry to learn that his mental condition has recently become such that it has been found necessary to send him to a sanitarium for treatment. Mr. Preston is subject to epileptic fits, and, what is not unusual in such cases, he is now suffering with what is called post epileptic insanity. He was quite violent at times, and as the disease from which he was suffering did not yield readily to medicine it was thought best to place him where he could be properly restrained and treated. By the advice of his physician, Dr. T. D. Burgess, he was on Sunday last taken to a sanitarium in Cincinnati and placed under the care of a celebrated specialist. Mr. Preston was accompanied to Cincinnati by two of his brothers, Phillip Preece and Dr. Burgess.

Pikeville Pastimes.

Yesterday some men, who were strangers, probably here for a short time on business, walked over to view the unfinished residence and grounds of Congressman Langley, and, after doing so, proceeded to return to the bridge by crossing the brow of the hill through the woods just above the roadway, and in doing so they heedlessly loosened a rock that would probably weigh twenty-five pounds. It went down the steep slope with great violence, hounded over a wire fence at the foot of the hill penetrated the wall of a humble little box-house situated on the river bank, which was occupied by Noah Ratcliff and wife, an aged couple, and struck Mrs. Ratcliff over the right eye, making a circuitous gash around her head, passed through the door onto the porch, breaking a hole through a plank. The aged woman is in a critical condition, and Drs. Thompson and Walters think her recovery is doubtful. 'Tis quite a pathetic case, owing to the age and poverty of the old people, who have been trying to support themselves by work.—Ashland Independent.

For Thomas P. Salyer.

Representative Bennett, of Kentucky, has secured the promise of the committee that if a claims bill is reported it will include appropriations for several Kentuckians, who were provided for in the last omnibus bill.

Among the beneficiaries of the bill is Thomas P. Salyer, deceased. His heirs will have the benefit of the amount he would have had.

Former Fendist Faded.

Caleb Jones, aged about 74 years, former Kentucky feudist, with a record of 33 murders, having repeatedly fought John Wright, another feudist, and his lieutenants, and on one occasion killing three who were laying in ambush near his house, was found dead in bed from heart failure at home, near Big Stone Gap, Va., where he had lived quietly for several years.

FRANK WELCH ACQUITTED.

Charge of Murder Against Him Dismissed in West Virginia.

Frank Welch, formerly of this place but who now lives at Iaeger, W. Va., and whose arrest on the charge of murdering Henry Mosby at Iaeger on the 8th of last December, was acquitted of the charge, but was found guilty of carrying a pistol on that occasion. His attorneys, Cook, Litz & Howard and D. L. Auvil gave notice that they would appeal the case to the Supreme Court and Welch was released on $1,000 bond pending the result of appeal.

The contention of the attorneys for the defense will evidently be that if Welch was justified in taking the life of Mosby in order to protect his own he was also justified in carrying a gun on that particular occasion as brought out by the evidence. The jury was out only a few minutes in each of these cases. Welch has returned to his home at Iaeger, where he has a wife and three small children.

Machinery Out of Gear.

The astronomical editor of the NEWS alluded a cog in his celestial machinery last week, but the wheels and things are in good order again, and the engineer is at his post.

Halley's comet is still telescopic, but will probably be seen by May. Its tail will probably hit the earth a swipe, but you'll never know it. Its caudal appendage is as thin as a poor man's soup is in these promised days of prosperity. The comet recently seen has four tails, three of its own and the one the NEWS told about it.

The Kermit Election.

The Kermit election was held as per arrangements. The ants had gone before Judge Doolittle in Huntington and gotten an injunction, but the election officers braved contempt proceedings, all except Wm. Workman, and 23 votes were cast for the ticket headed by C. C. Preece. The opposition did not vote, and are still depending on the strength of their injunction. Messrs. Preece and Evans, the new Mayor and Recorder, were sworn in before Squire Chaffin, and thus the town of Kermit makes its bow as a corporation.

New Ruling for Rural Routes.

In view of the extent to which the practice of placing loose coins in mail boxes by rural patrons has grown, and the delay in the delivery and collection of mail and the hardship imposed on rural carriers incident thereto, the Post Office Department has ruled that, commencing February 15, instant, rural mail carriers will not be required to collect loose coins from rural mail boxes. Patrons should enclose coins in an envelope, wrap them securely in a piece of paper, or deposit them in a coin-holding receptacle, so they can be easily and quickly taken from the mail boxes; and carriers will be required to lift such coins, and, when accompanied by mail for dispatch, attach the requisite stamps. It sometimes happens that coins are overlooked or are lost in papers or other mail matter; hence the new order.

A Great Man.

Blaine Newport says in the Catlettsburg Democrat that Caleb Powers has shown himself to be a man and a gentleman under trying circumstances and the "greatest man Kentucky has produced since Abraham Lincoln."

This does settle it.—Big Sandy News.

Caleb may be all and even more than Blaine Newport claims for him. We don't know about that. But when it comes to gathering in the sheekles for making campaign speeches, Caleb is "Johnny on the spot." Last fall the Republicans of Johnson county gave him $500 to deliver one oratorical gem, since which time they have been seriously wondering if the effort was worth the price paid.—Paintsville Herald.

Layne-Hitchins.

"Clayton S. Hitchins and Miss Grace Layne were married at the Hotel Alger Saturday afternoon. Rev. Walter Garrison, officiating," says the Catlettsburg Tribune. "The ceremony was very impressive and was witnessed by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hitchins, of Olive Hill. The bride and groom are prominent. Miss Layne being a member of one of the oldest families in the Big Sandy valley, while the groom is president of the Betsy Layne Coal Co. His father is engaged in business in Olive Hill, being the president of a large Fire brick company at that place. The young couple left on the west-bound train for Cincinnati. From there they will go to Florida for an extended sojourn."

Something Fine in Store.

There will be quite a unique entertainment given by a number of our most talented girls at the opera house on the evening of February 19th. The good people of Louisa have in store a rare treat if they want to hear and see something out of the ordinary. In fact the entertainment given by these local folks will be extraordinary and worthy of the patronage of all lovers of clean, wholesome amusement. Encourage the promoters by your presence; they assure you an evening's programme well worth the price of admission. Further announcements will furnish particulars.

Those Who Are Sick.

Leonidas Bromley, who has been very sick with pneumonia, is convalescing. John Elswick continues quite ill with heart trouble. Willie Jones Crumpler, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Crumpler, is able to sit up occasionally. Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Burns have both been quite indisposed this week. Miss Istalena Fagg was quite sick two or three days this week. Arch. McClure, manager of the Brunswick hotel, is quite sick with lagrippe.

Delightfully Entertained.

Mrs. D. J. Burchett very delightfully entertained with lunch on Wednesday afternoon. The company was quite large, eight tables being engaged. The refreshments were most delicious, and a very pleasant afternoon was spent.

Agriculture in State Schools.

About 85 per cent. of our children never get beyond the country school. Our greatest hope for preparing them to become useful citizens and to live most completely, is through our teachers.

Every county in our Eastern District must be made a paying county, able to support itself, and have the has of pauperism forever removed. Our average corn crop in Kentucky is only eleven bushels per acre. We can make it thirty by proper fertilization, cultivation and selection of seed. Other crops can be made to increase accordingly.

Our forests are nearly gone and we must replace them by the forest-growing hybrid walnut trees, which on our cheap land, in the east, will make us millions in just a few years. Our coal is fast disappearing, but the soil, if properly cared for, will always stay with us and be our most trusted source of wealth.

The mountains of our Eastern District are admirably adapted to fruit raising, and may be made to stand next to the lake region and California in quantity and quality.

Apples, pears, peaches, plums, quinces, berries and nuts, can be produced in immense quantities, when they fall in other sections. This, I believe, will be one of our greatest sources of wealth for the future, if properly managed.

Now, we buy our canned and dried fruit from California, at a good price. The peaches and apples used in the Bluegrass region are shipped in through Cincinnati, from the North and West, and we pay from $1.50 to $2.50 per bushel for them, while peaches with the finest flavor in the world, and quality inferior to none, sell in the mountains at 50 cents per bushel.

Apples, superior in quality to many shipped into the State, sold in the mountains this fall at 15 cents per bushel and other fruits accordingly.

Any country or State which ships out its raw products and ships in its manufactured articles and food supply, is doomed sooner or later. We can dry and preserve fruit, and raise apples enough to supply not only our own State but the surrounding States.

There is no question that this will increase our wealth but in order that it may be done we must do the following:

1. Introduce the best qualities of fruit from home nurseries.
2. Secure fruit adapted to our soil and climate.
3. Instruct our teachers in the very best practical methods of budding, grafting, crossing, pruning, growing, shipping, drying, canning and spraying that this may be handed over to the parents through the children.
4. Since there are about eight hundred million dollars worth of fruit and other farm products destroyed in the United States annually, each teacher should be made familiar with the fungi and insects injurious to these products, and given the best methods of destroying them.
5. Since there is greater loss over the State by neglect along fruit-growing lines and farming in general than from almost any other source, intensive farming should be more largely introduced and carried on.—Eastern Kentucky Review.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

Langley Looked to the Future.

John W. Langley, of "Bloody Breathitt" county, Ky., can be seen any day hob-nobbing with the Democrats of the House. One day a friend, who met him walking with Judge Rucker, of Missouri, asked, "How is it that a Kentucky Republican always chooses an old-school Democrat for a companion?" "Well," replied Langley, ever bubbling with good humor, "You see, it's hereditary. My father, my grandfather, in fact all my ancestors, even the women folks, were as staunch Democrats as could be found in their day, so I suppose I take to Democrats like a duck to water. I threatened the matter out when I was a youngster, and came to the conclusion that a fellow who had an eye to future prospects, and a little aggrandizement in the matter of 'pie,' would do better to be a Republican, so I lined up with the G. O. P." Whereat the jovial Kentuckian, slapped Rucker soundly on the back, and aside from a slight twinge of the spinal column, there were no hard feelings.—St. Louis Star.

New Seed Corn.

Capt. Jack Rittenhouse has introduced a white seed corn here that every farmer should try. It has a very small cob and large grain, and is especially adapted to thin land. John Bedford, of Clark county, last year bought two bushels at Savannah, Ga., and he and his brother last year produced 925 bushels from the two bushels of seed. The man from whom he purchased the seed first sent for a sample of that grown in Kentucky, and, after seeing it, ordered 600 bushels, for which he paid $2.50 per bushel. They claim that any of our land will produce two ears to the stalk.—Hazel Green Herald.

Capt. Rittenhouse formerly lived at Whitehouse. Our farmers might do well to plant some of this corn.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Louisa People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills. For Louisa kidney sufferers.

Have made their local reputation. Proof lies in the testimony of Louisa people who have been cured to stay cured.

Mrs. Sarah Pigg, Main Street, Louisa, Ky., says: "I suffered from many distressing symptoms of kidney trouble. My back was the weakest spot and the dull, heavy pains through my loins were almost unbearable. I was weak, tired and devoid of ambition and often was annoyed by headaches and dizzy spells. Irregular passages of the kidney secretions also bothered me and I felt like giving up. Doan's Kidney Pills were at length brought to my notice and I began their use. Before long the kidney secretions were regulated and the other symptoms of my trouble disappeared. I strongly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to my friends." (Statement given June 27, 1908.)

On June 22, 1909, Mrs. Pigg added to the above: "I can safely say that Doan's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble permanently. During the past year and a half, I have not had the least return of this complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The New School Laws of Kentucky.

The main purpose of this article, notwithstanding that we have it printed in regular form in, I presume, every common school district in this State, supplemented by the various bulletin forms issued by Hon. J. G. Crabbe, Supt. Public Instruction, Frankfort, Ky., is to more thoroughly acquaint those who have been unable to gain any information of the common school laws of Kentucky other than that discussed by the people generally.

There is no doubt in my mind that many people have the wrong conception of this law, perhaps they are wrongfully and purposely misled by those who are not in sympathy with it; or perhaps the law has been intentionally misconstrued for some other purpose.

This school law was enacted by the last General Assembly about two years ago. The purpose of this new law is to create a better school system, especially in the rural districts of this Commonwealth. The Legislature kept in mind the status of the rural common school district, although, perhaps, a good majority of those schools was in excellent condition and under fine supervision while many, no doubt, were in poor and sad plight.

The law divides every county into from four to eight divisions known as "Educational Divisions;" Lawrence county having eight such divisions. Each one of those divisions has from ten to fourteen districts known as "Sub-divisions" or "Sub-districts."

The County Judge, County Superintendent and County Attorney make those divisions and sub-divisions and boundaries thereof. The county is made the unit of taxation, excluding, however, any city school or county graded school. This county taxation, however, cannot exceed 20 cents per $100 worth taxable property, besides poll of $1.00.

The Board of Education, which is composed of one chairman elected from each of the eight Educational Divisions above mentioned, with the County School Supt. as Chairman ex-officio also a member of said Board (nine members in Lawrence county), recommends to the Fiscal Court of the various counties a certain tax to be collected from one mill to twenty cents, also a poll to any amount not to exceed one dollar, if they so desire. By order of this Court the Sheriff collects, returns same to County School Supt. acting as treasurer, under a "Special Bond," to pay out same by the direction of County Board of Education. This county recommended no poll, but by its Board of Education a tax of only ten cents was recommended and collected.

This tax can be paid out for school purposes by order of Board of Education, giving as much or as little to the various schools, black or white, to principal and assistants, County High School, as they see cause, just and proper.

Therefore, the new school laws give the County Board of Education of every county in this State authority to do what it thinks is right, just, and for the betterment of education for which it stands. The Board of Education has nothing to do with employing the teachers in various sub-districts in the State; that is left entirely to a majority of the local trustees comprising its own Educational division.

The new law requires one or more County High Schools to be established in the county; first one shall be at the county seat. This unpopular and very expensive act of the Board of Education, as some enemies of education have seemed to put it recently, has been complied with and been established. The boys and girls of this Commonwealth must have some place outside of the rural school districts to prepare themselves for a better and higher education. Can they possibly reach it in such schools? Sure they cannot do so. Let them prepare themselves in the rural schools and be able to enter a step higher into the County High Schools and still higher to colleges and universities.

Think of it! Under school systems of various other States that do not surpass Kentucky in neither wealth nor population, there were nearly two hundred County High Schools, and up to two years ago Kentucky had possibly a dozen such schools; now, under the present laws of Kentucky, fifty or more counties have established those schools, some counties one, some three, four and five; consequently, a gain of more than one hundred within the last year.

These other counties we hope will continue this good work until Kentucky will be one of the foremost States in the Union as to such schools. We are financially handicapped to some extent. Should Lawrence county be a Bourbon, a Jefferson, a Fayette, then we could, with pride, be assured of many such County High Schools as the laws expressly provide for.

Please think for one moment of time what would it cost to thoroughly equip a building for this County High School? What would principal and one or more assistants cost? What would it cost to maintain a County High School should we begin at the foundation? Let us see. A house and other suitable buildings, possibly no less than $3500; one principal at the lowest figures, $90 per month; one or more assistants, at least $60 per month; gas, lights, apparatus, water, etc., for nine months during the year. Would $5000 per year over estimate the cost? In order to save cost the law providing for the establishment of such High Schools vests a wide discretion in the Board of Education and authorizes same to arrange with city boards of education and with other institutions of non-sectarian character any contract they may be able to adjust.

Not Coughing Today?

Yet you may cough tomorrow! Better be prepared for it when it comes. Ask your doctor about keeping Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. Then when the hard cold or cough first appears you have a doctor's medicine at hand. Your doctor's approval of its use will certainly set all doubt at rest. Do as he says. He knows. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

had it not been for the heroic efforts of persons nearby,—well, no

GREAT RALLY.

Realism and other methods of education and the spirit of work, sobriety, and enthusiasm it inculcates.
He then spoke of the warm and tender feeling he has for President Byington, to whom, he said, he owes his start in getting an education.
Mr. May made a powerful appeal to the young people to make the most of their present opportunities and thus to fit themselves for the opportunities of the immediate future; and to let nothing interfere with their work, not even the desire to see the loved home folks, nor amusements, nor anything; to let absolutely nothing come between them and their school duties.

The court house was crowded, packed, jammed. Standing room was at a premium. The hundreds present who had to stand throughout the two hours of programme, stirred the spirit of our esteemed fellow citizen, Col. Jay H. Northup, and he made a rousing appeal to the men of Louisa that they take steps at once to enable the college to finish and furnish its auditorium.

The auditorium when finished will comfortably seat more than a thousand people; and it is very much needed by the school not only for such special occasion, but also for daily devotional and general exercises for the whole school. Col.
Northup's talk met with such response that it is assured that the auditorium can be finished just as soon as vacation will allow the carpenters to resume work. The amount pledged through Col. Northup's talk was about $900.

The rally was a complete success in every way, and an inspiring occasion to all who were present. At the close, the announcement was made by the college that it has established an Art Department, and that any of the citizens will be welcomed by the art teacher if visiting the college and examining her work.

The next rally will be held in the big college auditorium about May 20.

Successful Operation.

Mrs. Sam Sturgill, of Rich Creek, this county, underwent a very serious and difficult operation at Riverview hospital on Monday last.
She was here last fall for treatment, but her health was poor then, and after a stay of some time in the hospital returned to her home hoping that she would get strong enough for the proposed operation.
She returned on Sunday last much improved, and on the next day she submitted to the knife. The operation was a difficult and serious one, and because of many complications it occupied a long time. The work was entirely successful, Mrs. Sturgill rallying nicely from the anesthetic, and she is now doing very well. She had no chance whatever for her life before the operation, now she seems in a fair way to recover.

Dr. L. H. York was the operating surgeon, assisted by Drs. A. W.
Bromley and G. W. Wroten.

NEWS OF THE FARM.

Dairy Utensils.

There is a great deal of carelessness about the character of utensils which the dairyman uses as well as the care taken of them. They should be of good quality and generally of heavy tin without seam or crack into which bacteria may pass, for thus the fresh milk would be inoculated with the leavings of the old and begin at once to deteriorate.

The churn, of course, should be of wood, but close grained, so as to absorb little moisture. The barrel churn, with no inside fixtures, is preferable. Thus it will be most easily cleaned. It should also be large enough to contain the churning without being more than half full.

Utensils should be cleaned without delay in order to save labor and make the job thorough. Rinse milk vessels first with cold water to prevent sticking and then wash with hot water and sal soda. A brush cleans out all seams and corners best. If convenient then apply hot steam. Otherwise wipe dry and put them out to sun.

Difference in Cows.

The unthinking and careless dairyman has but little conception of the great difference between the producing powers of cows. To illustrate, it is said that one cow in the Georgia experiment station produced $115.44 worth of butter, while another, the poorest in the same herd, produced only $41.62 worth. In the Michigan station, it is said, the profits on the milk from various cows varied from $6.08 to $4.05.

Statistics like the above could be given to an indefinite extent. They show the necessity of knowing your cow. Every dairyman should study closely the individual cows of his herd and dispose of all that fall below the deadline of production. When they do not pay for their keep you have no further use for them. There is no earthly need of keeping any cow at a loss, and yet many farmers, not to say dairymen, do so. It is said on good authority that fully one-third of the cows in this country do not give enough milk to pay the cost of their keep, and that fully 75 per cent. of the profits of the dairy business comes from not more than 25 per cent. of the cows.

Bacteria Again.

At the present time every dairyman should know about bacteria. They have so much to do with his business that he cannot afford to be ignorant of them. Nothing affects the milk and its products more than these little microscopic organisms.

It is only in recent years that we have known of these organisms, and their relation to the dairy business. In a comparatively short time men of science have learned a great deal about them and have written about them many books and pamphlets which can be obtained at little or no cost.

Bacteria are of a vegetable nature. They swarm by the hundreds of thousands in milk and its products. There are considerably more than 200 varieties, or kinds, of bacteria. Some are good bacteria and some are bad ones. Some of the good ones give to the milk and butter their fine flavor and some of the bad ones make bitter products.

While a great deal has been found out regarding bacteria in connection with dairy products, there remains much yet to be learned. Much of our knowledge is also vague and uncertain, but it is extending rapidly.

Dairy science is progressing so rapidly that works on this subject soon get out of date. Books or dairymen written twenty or thirty years ago are now wholly obsolete and are scarcely worth reading at all. In order to get most benefit you want to read the very latest productions on bacteria.

Feed Notes.

Protein is by much the most costly food element, and it can be obtained cheapest in cottonseed meal. Yet other proteids must be used because a sufficiency in cottonseed meal is not safe.

One pound of grain per day to the 100 pounds of the living cow was the old rule for feeding, but we now see that it was incorrect, especially when it made no difference between a dry cow and one of the same weight in milk.

All forage or all grain is not the proper way to feed a cow. The digestive organs are stimulated by bulk and some grain seems necessary to further stimulation. There is a demand for both.

It is not always easy to mix feeds in the right proportion. Different cows have different requirements. The dry cow differs from the milk cow. The one in gestation may have a still different requirement. Bulk, palatability and the amount of protein ought to meet all requirements for nutrition in a cow. Yet cows differ and there is doubt also as to the exact proportions required in a balanced ration. Practice must guide to some extent.

Don't forget to keep salt where the cows can go to it when they please. Salt is not a food, but it seems to promote digestion and keeps up healthy action.

No doubt a feed ration expressed in figures will always puzzle many dairymen. They must depend upon practice, observation and common sense, which are not so bad after all.

Dairy Pointers.

The house where milk is kept should be entirely clean and away from the stable. No foul odors or dust should be allowed.

The water used about a dairy must be absolutely clean. Disease like typhoid fever is often communicated by infected water used in washing the butter or the dairy vessels.

The water which the cow drinks must also be free from all pollution. A pond in which the cows stand and drop their secretions cannot possibly be fit for them to drink.

A great deal has been said about a dual purpose cow, but it seems doubtful if ever any ideal cow of that kind will be bred.

A good scrub may be a better dairy cow than a poor specimen of the best breed, but as a rule the pure-bred cow is the best.

Don't neglect to put a ring into your bull's nose about the time he is one year old. Into this a strap or staff can be snapped for the purpose of leading him.

Try to have the calves come when dairy products bring the best price. This is usually in winter. Hence the calves should come in the fall.

If your custom is regular it may be better to have cows come fresh at different periods during the year. Some cows "go dry" for a long period, and others give milk right up to the calving time. From four to six weeks is the proper time.

Money may be saved by feeding in the right way and lost by feeding in the wrong way. The necessary food elements must be properly proportioned both to support the cow and also to produce milk.

Good pasture is of first importance to the dairy cow. No other food can be furnished at so little expense as pasture grass. But it should be so abundant that she can get all she needs to eat.

Fattening Hogs.

A Colorado farmer relates the following in reference to the use of Hubbard squashes in that State:

"A neighbor claims he can finish the fattening of hogs on Hubbard squashes in one-half the time he can with corn, while with pumpkins he can only make them hold their own. He says he can finish a hog in fair condition in six weeks on about one ton of squashes, making a 200 to 250 pound hog. He cuts the squashes and feeds them raw, and says the hogs clean up everything, shell and all."

The squash apparently has a fattening value greater than that of the pumpkin, and both pumpkins and squashes are worthy of more attention in swine husbandry than has been generally given them.—From Cornbush's "Swine in America."

A Remedy.

The following is a good remedy for scratches on horses, as asked for in a recent issue of Home and Farm:

Wood charcoal finely pulverized and dusted through cheese cloth or tobacco canvas. Apply not less than three times a day.

WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

The trial of Attorney General Williams, of Virginia, on a charge of assaulting former Judge Saunders of the West Virginia Court of Appeals was continued until the April term of the McDowell county Criminal Court at Welch.

Adj. Gen. Hutson Goes Free.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 5.—As a result of a decision handed down by Circuit Judge Burgess this afternoon, a new trial is granted to former Assistant Adj. Gen. Alexander S. Hutson, sentenced last November to five years imprisonment for the alleged embezzlement of State military funds. Prosecutor Avis announced tonight that because of the decision it would be impossible to secure a conviction on any of the eight indictments remaining against Col. Hutson and that further prosecution against him would be abandoned.

To Develop West Virginia Timber.

The Manufacturers' Record has received authentic information that the Miller-Crozier Lumber Co., of Huntington, W. Va., has recently bought 1859 acres of timber land in Greenbrier county, and will install a 40-horse-power circular sawmill of 20,000 feet daily capacity to facilitate its development. The mill will be located at Anthony, about 17 miles above Ronover, for which all necessary equipment has been purchased and contracts awarded for the erection of the buildings required including store, boarding-house and about 15 dwellings. The company will also construct seven miles of 36-inch gauge railroad, for which it has purchased a 15-ton Climax locomotive, together with a wire suspension bridge to have a 240-foot span over the Greenbrier river. Charles A. Miller, of Ashland, and G. W. Crozier, of Huntington, are interested in the enterprise. The lumber output of the company will be handled by J. W. Johnson & Co., of Huntington.

Stay of Execution Granted Belcher.

Columbus Belcher, the Meigs county convict, who was to have been swung into eternity from a scaffold in the state prison on the 18th day of this month, in atonement for the murder of Curtis Carter, has secured a new lease on life. Judge Ferrell H. Evans, counsel for Belcher, has secured from Judge John B. Wilkinson, of that circuit, a writ of error and supersedeas, which will act as a stay of execution until the alleged error of the trial court can be reviewed and determined.

This order was issued on the first day of February and a copy has been served on Warden J. E. Matthews, of the penitentiary. The matter will be heard at the next regular term of the Circuit Court at Williamson in March.

This is the second respite Belcher has had and his friends hope that he may yet escape the gallows.

Judge Evans has strong hopes of securing a new trial for his client. Governor Glasscock respite Belcher for 60 days in order that the appeal to the Circuit Court might be prosecuted, and Judge Wilkinson's action will lengthen his days on earth, even though the final decision goes against him.

West Virginia Geology.

The West Virginia Geological Survey has just issued an important volume describing the minerals, soils, physical features, coal beds, oil and gas pools of Marshall, Wetzel and Tyler counties, together with topographic, geologic and soil maps of that entire area in a single sheet on the scale of one mile to the inch. These publications will prove very valuable to everyone interested in the mineral resources of these three counties. The volume in question is described as follows:

"New Detailed County report on Marshall, Wetzel and Tyler Counties 654 pages plus XVIII, with case of 3 maps—topographic, geologic and soil—covering the entire area of these counties, on a scale of one mile to the inch, just issued from the press. In this report the history, geology, soils and surface features of each county is described in detail, and a new feature is introduced, showing the structure of the rocky strata by contours on the Pittsburgh coal bed, thus bringing out the exact positions of the anticlines and synclines, and exhibiting the location of all the oil and gas pools developed in these three counties to the close of 1909. The location of the numerous (700) horse hole records given in the text is indicated on the geologic map, and it has also been possible to show the line of disappearance of the Pittsburgh coal with more accuracy than possible on the small scale of the State map. Price, with case of maps, postage paid by the survey, $2. A few copies of both the topographic and the geologic maps of these three counties have been mounted on muslin for office use. These can be sent only by express and the price is $1.50 each, or both for $2.50, express to nearest express office prepaid by the survey."

For other combinations at reduced rates, including all the remaining publications of the survey, write to the West Virginia Geological Survey, Morgantown, W. Va.

Famous King Land Case Settled.

On Monday of last week the Supreme Court of the United States dismissed the appeal of Henry C. King in the famous land case that has been pending in the various courts of West Virginia and in the Supreme Court for twenty years past. No case in recent years has been fought more fiercely. The land involved lies mostly in Logan, Mingo, Wyoming and McDowell counties, being a part of a land grant made by the State of Virginia in 1795 to Robert Morris, the famous Pennsylvania financier who largely financed the American Revolution, and who was in consequence broken up. Morris disposed of some of this land to Frenchmen, whose claims were afterwards recognized by the Legislature of Virginia. Actual possession was never gained by the old claimants, however, and there has been more or less litigation during the past seventy-five years. Samuel J. Randall, the famous Pennsylvania politician was for a number of years the representative of the French claimants. About twenty years ago Henry C. King bought up these claims and proceeded in earnest in his efforts to oust the holders of the land. Nearly every lawyer of prominence in this section of the State has been employed in it. The main fight in defense has been made by such corporations as the United Thacker Co., Cole & Crane and others, whose interests are large in that section at present. It is believed that the action of the Supreme Court will end the litigation.

Howard Little to be Electrocutted.

Grundy, Va., Feb. 4.—Howard Little, sextuple murderer, will be electrocuted in the Richmond, Va., penitentiary on the 11th of this month for the murder of the Meadows family and "Aunt Betty" Justice. Although Little has killed six persons he is not afraid to die and before leaving Norfolk for Richmond he stated that he had "got religion." His stay of thirty days granted him by Governor Swanson, expires on the 11th of this month and the Court of Appeals has refused to grant him a writ of error.

His last request before leaving Norfolk was that after his death his body be sent to his home in McDowell county, W. Va., for interment. His friends in McDowell county have raised a purse to defray expenses and his remains will be interred in the family cemetery in McDowell county.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

OBITUARY.

The pale horse and his rider visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart the 3rd of February and took from them their darling babe. He was three years old. A father and mother, three brothers and three sisters are left to mourn his death.

Father and mother, do not weep for Cecil, but get ready to meet him where there will be no more good-byes. In the death of this precious one the home has lost a sparkling jewel, but he has gone to shine with far more radiant splendor upon the golden shores of the New Jerusalem. At the great resurrection day the parents will hear the Master say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; here is your darling babe I have kept for you." We are so lonely. We no more hear his sweet voice in the home, but blessed be God, the day of rest and reward will come, and we will say, as dear Cecil said, "Farewell vain world, I'm going home." A Friend.

You will find real china of medium price at Conley's store. Also, Haviland China.

MALE STATUTE UNVEILED.

Burial of the Dead Governor's Brother on Same Day.

Frankfort, Ky., February 3.—The main fell today in the last act of Kentucky's darkest tragedy. The monument erected by the people of Kentucky to the memory of Governor William Goebel was unveiled in the presence of a thousand or more surviving people who had come from every section of the state to take part and witness the ceremony. Immediately before the unveiling of this monument the body of Arthur Goebel, brother of Governor William Goebel, was lowered into the grave, hanked around with flowers, beside the body of his brother. The ceremonies in the State Cemetery were very brief and as simple as possible. They were made more so because a cold, penetrating northwest wind blew across the hills and snow flurries filled the air. Miss Lillie Goebel, daughter of Justus Goebel, a niece of Governor William Goebel, then pulled the silver cord that unveiled the monument of her distinguished uncle.

Memorial Service Indoors.

This concluded the ceremonies in the cemetery and then the crowd gathered at the opera house at 1 o'clock for the memorial services. It had been planned to hold the services at the cemetery, where all could be accommodated, but the weather was so inclement that it was necessary to hold the services in the opera house.

Former Governor J. C. W. Beckham, who succeeded Governor Goebel as the Chief Executive, was the master of ceremonies, and the principal speakers were former United States Senator James B. McCreary and Justus Goebel.

In his address Justus Goebel said: "In view of what has transpired in your midst since I last stood face to face with you 10 years ago, I would be ungrateful and disloyal to you, the living, and to my brothers, dead, if I did not, in spite of impaired health, on this occasion marshal my remaining strength and raise my weakened voice in protest.

Main For His Devotion.

"Ten years ago I addressed you in these words:

"As the mortal remains of the kindest, gentlest and most loving sons and brothers are consigned to their resting place, I want to say a last word to you. Your friend, my brother, lies dead before you, murdered for his devotion to the cause of the people. Should not Kentucky now and here swear by his blood that her sons will see justice done to those concerned in his foul taking off? If you fall in this your laws are dead letters.

"If he could speak he would say now, as oft before, 'Let the law take its course.'

"Will designing men of high station be permitted to use ignorant outlaws to further their ambitions, and when that ambitious is disappointed, turn red-handed murderer loose under the very roof of the Executive Building?

"Shall the guilty in high places be uncovered? Shall the honor of the state be restored? Or shall his lifehood, split on your Capitol square, be dried up by the sun, washed away by the rains and life sacrifice be forgotten?

Fought For Principles.

"Measured by the highest standard of men, the grandest tribute possible to be paid him, to whom you have been so loyal, is to fight for the principles for which he lay down his life as he fought for them. To you, sons of Kentucky, I submit these questions.

"Brother, farewell until we meet in the better world, where outlaws cannot be hired, where crime is unknown, where rest comes.

"Mother, brother, you have gone before; we shall join you."

"You know what has come to pass since then. You know, in three trials of Caleb Powers, three of Jas. B. Howard and one of Henry E. Yontes, 84 citizens, who composed those seven juries, said by their verdicts, 'Guilty,' that there was conspiracy and that 'the guilty in high places had been uncovered.'

"Those verdicts undisturbed would have meant the restoration of the honor of our state. In the six opinions of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky in these cases never once was it been hinted that there was no evidence of conspiracy to murder.

Scored Governor Willson.

"Caleb Powers and James B. Howard each three times convicted, have been pardoned by Augustus E. Willson, Governor of Kentucky, who gave as reasons for his act that there was no conspiracy and no one guilty but Yontes, thus reflecting upon and questioning the integity of our Courts and every one interested in those prosecutions. How false and foul the slander!

"What mockery! What arrogant and unprecedented assumption of power that a Governor should constitute himself a High Court of Review and reverse the action not only of our trial Courts, but of our Court of last resort.

"Since William Goebel was assassinated as kinsman or friend of his has been guilty of any overt act. No violence has been indulged in or advised by them, but, as he counseled, his brothers and friends appealed to, labored and prayed that the law might be permitted to take its course in bringing to justice those who were responsible for his unholy and untimely taking off.

Justice Hangs Her Head.

"Now, pray tell me, are not our Kentucky laws which fix penalties for murder dead letters?

"What encouragement longer is there that men appeal to the law to right their wrongs?

"Are not such acts as those of Augustus E. Willson, Governor of Kentucky, in pardoning Caleb Powers and James B. Howard after so many verdicts of guilty but lacenatives to men to take the laws into their own hands?

"Today another brother, Arthur, has gone home. The shot that killed William broke Arthur's heart, and the pen that pardoned Caleb Powers and James B. Howard pierced that broke a heart and killed him.

"The Chief Executive has written dishonor upon the escutcheon of our state.

"Outraged justice hangs her head for very shame."

"On behalf of the relatives of William Goebel and for myself, I wish to thank the Commission that has had charge of the erection of the monument to the memory of William Goebel, also each and every contributor to the fund that made the erection of the monument possible, and all friends that have taken an interest in any way whatever therein."

Mr. Goebel's remarks, showing his bitter feeling, were received by the audience with continued applause.

BIG SANDY'S RICHES

Receive Lengthy Attention in the Louisville Times.

The following is an extract from an article on the Big Sandy Valley that appeared in a recent issue of the Louisville Times:

"Within the past ten years the Big Sandy valley, one of the richest of Kentucky's mountain sections, has been wonderfully developed. Less than a decade ago its mountain tops and hillsides were studded with virgin forests, while cropping from the earth everywhere were worlds of coal. Beneath the surface was an inexhaustible supply of natural gas, and everywhere was iron ore in unending bounty.

"Today these products are finding their way to the markets. Natural gas from the valley lights and heats its thriving villages. Its coal is being poured into the markets of the country, its iron is being forged into usefulness, its timber is being shipped to the markets of the open country, and live, hustling towns have sprung up all through the valley from Catlettsburg to the break in the Cumberland, thirty miles east of Pikeville.

"Within the past four years the Big Sandy branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad has been completed to Pikeville and beyond, and like magic busy towns have sprung up. Capitalists have invested vast sums in the development of its coal, gas, iron and mineral, and its people have emerged from the primitive mountaineer to thrifty business people. Schools and churches abound, and a civilization that has come almost within a decade is envied even by the Bluegrass section.

"Five years ago the only access to towns above Paintsville was by small boats that piled the Big Sandy river, up the Levisa fork and over on Tug fork. Today all these towns have their railroad.

"At Paintsville, the home of John C. C. Mayo, who was a poor man fifteen years ago, but is today a millionaire and a benefactor to the entire valley, there are schools and a college; at Louisa, Pikeville and Prestonsburg there are more schools and colleges, and property values in these little valley cities indicate a healthful progress."

For him there are no household cares,

The breakfast bell his slumber breaks, He dresses and descends the stairs To oatmeal, mush and buckwheat cakes.

For him life's river smoothly runs, He's happy, jolly and content, He has no wife and little ones On whom his earnings must be spent.

Let him enjoy it while he can, When age and loveliness shall come He'll wish he were a married man With sons and daughters, wife and home.

The Newspaper.

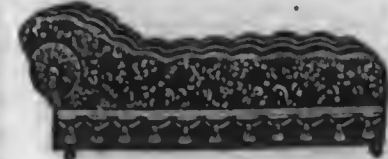

Of all men the newspaper man who are to select from the world's doings and the community's doings that with which the public is to be made familiar, needs to be wise and judicious, and to lay aside his dislikes and clear himself of all malice. If the newspaper which you take is to decide what information concerning the doings, good and bad, in the world and in the community, you and your family are to be made familiar with, have you not also a duty as to the kind of a newspaper you take—whether it be one that parades and patronizes vice and crime, and sneers at goodness and decency, or one that does the reverse of this? Does it make a difference whether you admit, daily or weekly, to your household, a paper which has regard for truthfulness and fairness, or one which will lie and slander at any time to suit its purpose?

To the newspapers are committed great responsibilities, and of it there must be corresponding demand. The responsibility of the paper, of those who make it and give it its character, is great and this responsibility ought to be exercised under the power and guidance of noble principle. But the paper and they who make it have not the only responsibility. They who select the paper which they will take and patronize have a responsibility for their selection. He who supports a paper in anyway is responsible in a measure for the character of that paper. This community is responsible for the kind of papers which it encourages and supports; and especially is there a responsibility as to the character of the paper admitted to the home—a responsibility for admitting

It makes little difference in home happiness whether you own your house, or have one little room on the sixth floor of an apartment house.

We are not all horn with the sunshine in our hearts, as the Irish people prettily term it, but we can all coax some of it in there if we only try.

Courtesy is of more value in the home than many believe it to be. It is easier to love a person than it is to be always courteous to him, and yet it is one of the most valuable recipes for keeping that love fresh within our hearts.

Smiles should be a part of ourselves every day of the week. Do you know we esteem those persons our best friends who greet us with a smile and a kind word. A community composed of individuals who look always on the bright side of everything would, in our opinion, be an ideal community. What we need in this life is sunshine, and a great deal of it.

Porter's escape from being instantly killed was miraculous. He had been spending the day in the city, and started home shortly after

The Facts About Pe-ru-na.

Is Peruna an alcoholic beverage in disguise? Is it possible to use Peruna as a substitute for whiskey? Do people buy Peruna and use it as a toddy, or a bitters, or a brace?

It would be the easiest thing in the world for any one to demonstrate the falsity of such statements. Let any one go to the drug store and purchase a bottle of Peruna. Let him undertake to use it as a beverage, or take this remedy in doses considerably larger than those prescribed on the bottle. Would the result be alcoholic intoxication? Nothing of the sort. Let any one try it and see.

Peruna is a medical compound quite heavily loaded with medicinal ingredients. If taken in doses larger than prescribed it would produce a positive drug effect. No one could take it as a beverage. If any one doubts these statements, try it and see. We know that Peruna cannot be used as a substitute for liquor; that it will not intoxicate; that it cannot be used as a substitute for liquor. We guarantee that PERUNA CONTAINS NO CHEAP WHISKEY—OR ANY OTHER WHISKEY, for that matter.

It contains a small per cent. of cologne spirits, absolutely essential to dissolve and hold in solution medicinal ingredients, but the drugs contained in Peruna prohibit its use as a beverage. It would be the easiest thing in the world for any one to demonstrate this if they chose to do so.

Peruna is sold everywhere. THE INGREDIENTS ARE PLAINLY PRINTED ON EACH BOTTLE. It has been said over and over again that chemists have analyzed Peruna and found it to contain only cubeba and whiskey. Now we challenge any chemist to demonstrate any such statement. Let any one who has even a smattering knowledge of chemistry purchase a bottle of Peruna and see whether or not it contains whiskey, find out for himself whether or not it is composed of cheap whiskey and cubeba. Of course, cubeba is one of the ingredients of Peruna, but there are many other ingredients. It contains hydrastis canadensis, corydalis formosa, collinsonia, and at least four other medicinal ingredients. To be sure, no chemist could analyze Peruna as to be able to identify the various medicinal ingredients. This is beyond the ability of any chemist. But any ordinary chemist would be able to say that Peruna is heavily loaded with medicinal ingredients of some kind in addition to cubeba.

Now why are these statements repeated when their falsity could be so easily demonstrated? Simply because there is continued hostility toward Peruna on the part of the medical profession. Very likely the magazines which took up the crusade against Peruna and denounced it as a cheap beverage were misled by statements of the medical profession. Probably they were sincere in their attitude towards it. But now, after all these things have been said and refuted, it would seem to be in order for such people to use a little fairness and common sense in the matter.

Every time any one says that Peruna is nothing but cheap whiskey and cubeba he is telling a lie, an absolute falsehood. Most people intend to speak the truth. But the prevalent habit of repeating other people's statements, without investigation as to their truth, has led many well-meaning people to say these false things about Peruna.

Used according to the directions on the bottle, PERUNA IS A SAFE AND RELIABLE CATARRH REMEDY, but, like any other good medicine, if taken in excess of those doses, it will produce drug effects very unpleasant to the person who takes it.

It is therefore up to every honest person to quit making such statements concerning Peruna, or acknowledge that he is repeating slanders about which he knows nothing. One might just as well say that Castor Oil is an intoxicant; that if taken in large enough doses it will operate as a "boom." If people never tried to see, but simply repeated such statements about Castor Oil, the majority of people would come to believe them. It is no easier to demonstrate such a statement about Castor Oil than it would be about Peruna.

Any one who takes Peruna knows that such statements are false. To say that Peruna is cheap whiskey and cubeba may constitute good material for jokes on the vaudeville stage, but there is no excuse for any one who pretends to be truthful saying over again this oft-repeated falsehood.

7:30 o'clock. In West Huntington the C. & O. and the public highway parallel each other for a distance of three or four blocks and instead of turning down the highway, Porter turned his horses, one of which he was riding and with the other in tow, and rode down the railroad track, straight out on the railroad retainer and over the edge into Four Pole creek. One of the horses was instantly killed and the other so terribly injured that it had to be shot. One of its hind feet was torn off by being caught between the ties as it went over.
